A Tramp Makes a Speech.

A tramp asked for a free drink in a saloon. The request was granted, and, when in the act of drinking the proffered beverage, one of the young men present exclaimed:

"Stop, make us a speech. It's poor liquor that doesn't loosen a man's tongue."

The tramp hastily swallowed down the drink, and as the rich liquor coursed through his blood, he straightened himself and stood before them with a grace and dignity which all his rags and dirt could not obscure.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I look to night at you and myself, and it seems to me I look upon the picture of my lost manhood. This bloated face was once as young and handsome as yours. This shambling figure once walked as proudly as yours, a man in the world of men. I too, once had a home and friends, and a position. I had a wife as beautiful as an artist's dream, and I dropped the priceless pearl of her honor and respect in the wine cup, and Cleopatra-like, saw it dissolve, and quaffed it down in the brimming draught. I had children as sweet and lovely as the flowers of spring and saw them fade and die under the blighting curse of a drunkard father. I had a home where love lit the flame upon the altar, and ministered before it, and put out the holy fire, and darkness and desolation reigned in its stead. I had aspirations and ambitions which soared as high as the morning star, and I broke and bruised their beautiful wings, and at last strangled them that I might be tortured with their cries no more. Today I am a husband without a wife, a father without a child, a tramp without a home to call his own, a man in whom every good impulse is dead, and swallowed up in the maelstrom of drink."

The tramp ceased speaking. The glass fell from his nerveless fingers, and shivered into a thousand fragments on the floor. The swinging doors rushed open and shut again, and when the little group at the bar looked up, the tramp was gone.—New Orleans Picayune.

Local Weekly's Hold.

Probably the time will never come in this country when the local newspaper will cease to be a unique feature of every considerable community, a sterling necessity of every growing and progressive town, says an exchange. And as to its character and tone, its ambitions and its aspirations, they will continue to be, as they now are, as much dependent upon the community as upon the publisher, for the town journal is, after all, what we make it.

Got a Better Price.

A clergyman was very much vexed by one of his congregation. An old man used to go to sleep during the sermon. The clergyman offered the old man's grandson a penny if he would keep his grandfather awake. This went all right for a month. One Sunday the old man went to sleep as usual. The clergyman asked the boy why he did not keep his grandfather awake. The boy answered: "You offered me a penny to keep him awake, but grandfather gives me twopence not to disturb him."

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT.

Condition of Crops and Live Stock April 1st, 1899.

Reports were received this month from 161 correspondents, representing 104 counties.

WHEAT.

The absence of growing weather during the month of March has left the solution of the fate of the late wheat to the future. The condition of early wheat is still reported excellent, and a few counties, where the major portion of the crop was sown early, the prospect for a full average crop is good. Severe freezing while the soil was saturated has further weakened the vitality of the plant, and were it not for the wonderful recuperative quality so often shown we might despair of receiving any returns from a considerable per cent. of the acreage. A number of correspondents report that the acreage will surely be reduced by plowing up and sowing to other crops. We would advise that ample time be given for development before resorting to this measure. All vegetation is fully one month late, and the prospects should be judged accordingly. Heavy rains have also damaged the crop by washing gullies in the rolling lands and by overflowing the bottoms.

The condition April 1st averages 77 as compared with normal years, a loss of three points since March 1st. The average condition on this date for the past three years has been as follows: 1898, 101; 1897, 94; 1896, 69.

The western section shows the lowest average condition, 69. In the central section the average condition is 78; in the eastern the condition is 85. The condition in the western section has suffered a loss of 1 point since March 1st; the central a loss of 7 points and the eastern a loss of 3 points.

OTHER CROPS.

Oat sowing is hardly begun in a majority of the counties, and for this reason no attempt is made at this date, estimate of the acreage. A few counties report about one half of the acreage sown in mud. The burning and sowing of tobacco plant beds is likewise much delayed. Very few growers have plants above ground at this date. Clover has wintered fairly well, a portion of the old clover only being frozen out. Pastures have made no growth worth naming up to the present.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The number of spring lambs, compared with the number in 1898, is 57 per cent., the loss being probably the heaviest ever sustained. The absence of the usual amount of grazing at this season causes a further loss in condition. The character of the winter has been opposed to a thrifty condition of sheep, and the loss of old has been correspondingly heavy. The loss from ravages of dogs is slight, averaging a little less than 5 per cent.

FRUIT PROSPECTS.

Owing to the backward season the development of fruit buds is not sufficiently advanced to judge accurately the fruit prospects. There appears to be no doubt that the peach crop will be a total failure. Many of the peach trees also are dead. The heavy rains and continued cloudy weather has been exactly suited to enable both fruit and forest trees to recover from the effects of the terrible freeze during the month of February. The condition of fruits, as far as present developments show, averages as follows: Apples, 82; Peaches, 0; Pears, 54; Cherries, 49; Grapes, 75; Strawberries, 84.

LUCAS MOORE,

A New York business man who went to Porto Rico to see what he could find in the way of profitable investments, passed through Washington this week on his way back home. In answer to questions he said: "A good many Americans are prospecting in Porto Rico, but I must say that the field is not very alluring. There is scarcely any opening there for capital and enterprise. The condition of the country is still unsettled. At first the Porto Ricans welcomed our soldiers, but that earlier spirit of kindness has departed, and now Uncle Sam's blue coats are anything but popular. The truth, however, disagreeable, must be told, and it is only telling the truth to say that the bad conduct of our volunteers is the cause of the dislike for them. They have committed all sorts of the excesses, and have been the aggressor in nearly all the troubles that have arisen. I was in San Juan long enough to see the utter futility of using natives to police the towns. The local police, composed of natives, couldn't cope with our volunteers, and if a row started were too much in awe of the soldiers to put down disorder. As far as the country is concerned, its prolific soil and fine climate are admirable, but the population for the most part have no redeeming qualities. There are some honorable exceptions, but the mass of the people are ignorant and lazy, with no thought of progress or ambition to better their condition."

ARE YOU A DEMOCRAT?

An old adage reads: "There is a place for everything," and for everything to be in its place, the LOUISVILLE DISPATCH should find a place in the home of every DEMOCRAT in the SUNNY SOUTH. The Dispatch is the people's paper, owned by the people, and is always ready to fight for the cause of the people. IT STANDS SQUARELY ON THE CHICAGO PLATFORM, without the aid or consent of the Gold Bug Monopolies, and a fair comparison of its news service (now being furnished over leased wires by the New York Sun, the Chicago Inter Ocean and the Northern Press Association) with that of any other paper, will fully verify its motto, "If you see it in the Dispatch it's so, and if it's so it is always in the Dispatch."

The Dispatch also has a staff of over 300 active correspondents in the South, and will POSITIVELY GUARANTEE MORE THAN DOUBLE THE SOUTHERN NEWS of any other Louisville paper. Get the Dispatch; it gives the news and tells the truth about it. Daily, 8 pages; Sunday, 24 pages; Weekly, 8 pages. We club with the Weekly Dispatch at the remarkably low price of 75 Cents.

L. & E. Train Jumps the Track.

A dastardly attempt was made Tuesday morning to wreck the down train on the L. & E. road. When about two miles from the L. & E. Junction, the engine jumped the track, and only the coolness of the engineer prevented a bad wreck. It was found that a spike had been placed on the track by some unknown party. No one was hurt, but several were very badly frightened.

A woman with the courage of her convictions asked a woman doctor of national renown as a health promoter and dress reformer, why she did not enter a protest against the trailing skirts. I preach against it, but I have my cup every blessed morning before I'm out of bed. I also preach against corsets, but I wear them." The scarcity of barrels will seriously cripple a number of distilleries, the owners of which are eagerly searching for coopers. The famine will greatly curtail the output of whisky this season.

The New York store at Mt. Sterling was burglarized Tuesday night and several hundred dollars worth of goods stolen. It is feared that an organized gang is at work.

When a Man May Whip His Wife.

In St. Louis Judge Peabody decided that under certain conditions a husband has a right to whip his wife. He dismissed the defendant for striking his wife "for trying to contradict and thwart her husband's will in the presence of the children and setting them a bad example, which he had a right to rebuke."

The assessed valuation of Boston is $1,036,690,578, and the value of the property exempt

Husbands to Burn.

A railroad conductor from Washington to Baltimore tells the following: "I found a lady in black grieving profusely. I asked, 'My poor madam, can I be of any help to you, and what is the matter?' She replied, 'Oh, conductor, conductor, I have my husband's remains in the baggage car, carrying them to Baltimore to be cremated.' A little further down the car a lady just as handsome as the other said to me, 'Conductor, what ails that good sister?' 'Madam,' I replied, 'she is carrying the body of her husband to Baltimore to be cremated, and I am surprised at her great grief, as it is her fourth husband.' Lady No. 2 began to weep very loudly, and in great surprise I said:
'Madam, you are worse than the other sister. What ails you?'
'Oh, conductor, the Lord is not good. I have trusted to the Lord for forty years and never had nary husband, and there is a woman with husbands to burn.'"—Dover News.

A Contractionist.

"It is hard to get ahead of that daughter of mine," said the portly man who fully realizes that he was once young himself.

"Last night I had occasion to go into the drawing-room. The light was turned down and I almost stumbled over my daughter and her best young man, who were sitting very close to each other on the sofa. I shouldn't have minded that so much if I hadn't discovered that the young man had his arm around my daughter's waist.

"What does this mean?" I demanded sternly, although I felt more like laughing to see the young man drop all proceedings.

"Why, papa," my daughter replied innocently, 'we were talking about political matters, and I asked Mr. Brown if he was an expansionist, and he said he wasn't. More than that, he was an out-and-out contractionist.
Then he illustrated his meaning, and I was so interested that I got caught within the zone of contraction.'

"There is going to be a wedding up at my house some day, but I don't think the young man fully realizes the treasure he is getting."—Detroit Free Press.

There are a number of things that Kentucky needs and needs badly. She needs better roads and better schoolhouses; she needs to have the hidden iron and coal development and put upon the market; she needs improved waterways; she needs an increased population of sober and industrious people, to work in shops and fields and mines; she needs something to keep her healthy and enterprising young men at home in a contented and prosperous condition; she needs a better enforcement of existing laws. How would it do for some of the Democrats who are so anxious to make a platform for the party in advance of the meeting of the State Convention to incorporate some of these needs in it?—Georgetown Times.

A Girl in Love.

"No, you don't seem to understand me," and the man with a big family on Winder street tapped the palm of his hand to make the meaning plainer. "Did you ever have an opportunity to watch a girl that is truly in love?
That's what I am trying to get at. I don't refer to the girl that has a half dozen beaux to her bow and is a coquette, but to one that is genuinely hit and hit for keeps.

"Never mingled with one, hey? I thought not or there would not be so much for me to explain.
Why man that oldest daughter of mine, goes about in a trance most of the time. She is perfectly oblivious to her immediate surroundings. She'll hum a love ditty and light the lamp shade instead of the lamp. Leave her to shut up the house, and when you come every door is an invitation for burglars to come in and help themselves. In view of her prospects she is trying to learn to cook and yet she will sit down and study vacancy while the black smoke of a burning dinner envelops her.

"During those cold nights she would wake up, calling to me to ask if I thought he got home safe. Might he not have been overcome with the cold and be lying out some place? Think of that, and him a six-footer and living but two blocks away. I don't care if we have a room full of company and are talking about the Klondike, Manila or Samoa, she'll ring that fellow in somehow and make him the chief topic inside of five minutes. If he happens to leave such a trifle as a lead pencil or a key she'll decorate it with a ribbon and keep it. I tell you it's a form of insanity."—Ex.
